The Catholic Prayer Bible (NRSV)

Lectio Divina Edition; Deluxe

Paulist Press

Like no other Bible

The Catholic Prayer Bible: Lectio Divina Edition is an ideal Bible for anyone who desires to reflect on the individual stories and chapters of just one, or even all, of the biblical books, while being led to prayer though meditation on that biblical passage.

Lectio divina, the reflective reading of scripture, has long been a popular devotional practice in the Church from the earliest centuries. It consists of four steps:

Read: A slow and thoughtful reading of a passage from the Bible

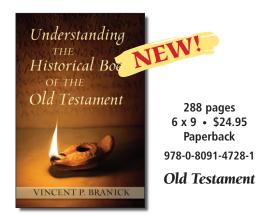

Reflect: A time of reflection and thinking about the meaning of that text to me as a reader

Pray: A period of prayer to God to bring the message or wisdom of the text to fruit in myself

Act: A decision on what I should do as a result; that is, an action plan to change or improve my life

Lectio divina is simple enough to be done any place where there is some quiet or peace, and at any time of day when you can find a few minutes. It can last for as long or short as you wish to make it; you can spend three minutes or fifteen. And it is intended for everyone, for you—not just for those people you may think of as elite in some way: priests and religious, the very educated. or the very pious.

This Bible, which is like no other, invites readers, whether individually or in groups, to read the Bible more completely and prayerfully. It is the perfect way to give the gift of prayer to yourself and to those you love.

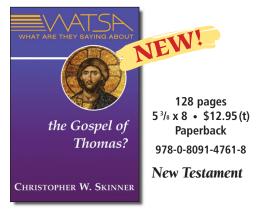

Understanding the Historical Books of the Old Testament Vincent P. Branick

This book combines a careful study of the subject matter and the literary form of each of the historical books of the Old Testament and at the same time explains why this literature should be of great interest to Christian and Jewish believers today. The study is text based, carefully examining the wording of selected pericopes and following up with reflections on the theological significance of the texts. Its focus is twofold. First, it is a study of the history of Israel through a critical examination of the biblical sources attempting to see the events through the eyes of the authors/editors and to understand the religious and national filters through which they saw those events. Secondly, it is also a study of the faith of Israel expressed in these writings in an attempt to reflect on the major patterns and themes expressed and presupposed in the narratives. Special attention is given to the stories of the prophets in these books. This book examines the biblical books in four groups: 1) the Deuteronomist history extending from Joshua to 2 Kings, 2) the Chroniclers' or priestly history extending from 1 Chronicles to Nehemiah, 3) the Maccabean story looking and 1 and 2 Maccabees from the Greek Bible, and 4) the midrashic accounts including Ruth, Esther, Judith, Esther, and Tobit. Numerous maps and diagrams assist the reader to follow the geographical references in the texts as well as complicated family lines and sequences of kings. An index assists in finding specific names and events.

Vincent Branick has been a professor of religious studies at the University of Dayton for the last thirty years. He earned his PhD for the University of Freiburg, Switzerland, and his SSD from the Pontifical Biblical Institute, Rome. He is the author of Understanding the New Testament and Its Message and Paul and His Letters (both Paulist Press).

What Are They Saying About the Gospel of Thomas?

Christopher W. Skinner

Here is a comprehensive overview of recent scholarly research on the Gospel of Thomas. Three issues remain unresolved in research on the Gospel of Thomas: (1) When was Thomas composed? (2) What is the relationship between the Gospel of Thomas and the canonical Gospels? and (3) What theological outlook is present in the Gospel of Thomas? This book explores current scholarly views on Thomas's date, relationship to the New Testament gospels, and theological outlook, showing first how discussions of each point have traditionally been interrelated in Thomas research, and second, how scholars have been unable to arrive at a consensus. This book is intended to introduce lay readers, college students, and other educated non-specialists to the most important discussions in contemporary research on the Gospel of Thomas

Christopher W. Skinner, who holds a PhD from The Catholic University of America, is assistant professor of religion at Mount Olive College in North Carolina.

Paul's Jewish Matrix

Edited by Thomas G. Casey and Justin Taylor

STIMULUS BOOKS

The discerning and perceptive essays gathered together in this volume make evident that a comprehensive understanding of Pauline thought must include the following aspects of his entire and comprehensive matrix:

—an examination of the Pauline letters in their specific and contingent as well as their broader and coherent contexts;

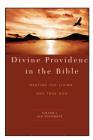

—a careful and precise analysis of all relevant Jewish literature, including the Dead Sea Scrolls;

—the incorporation of all relevant archaeological, historical, and literary evidence for the reconstruction of the political, cultural, and religious matrix of the Greco-Roman cities to which Paul's letters are addressed. The issues treated in this volume are of enormous relevance for a better understanding of Paul's Jewish Matrix and his very "Jewishness."

The Rev. Thomas G. Casey, SJ, is the director of Jewish studies and professor of philosophy at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome.

Classic Talks Raymond E. Brown, SS

One of America's preeminent biblical scholars and the premiere Johannine scholar in the English-speaking world.

These recordings are a precious memory/resource that makes Fr. Brown's immense scholarship available to everyone-scholars as well as everyday readers.

The Beginnings of the Church

An in-depth look at the early Christian community using as the main source the Acts of the Apostles and other New Testament writings, and other early sources. These talks are a treasure for helping us go back to roots and to experience a new sense of what Christian community meant and means for us today.

Brown leads us through the accounts of the Infancy of Jesus. He also draws heavily for his teaching on the "Old Testament Patriarchs, Kings, wise men and women-all preparing the way of the Lord." These CDs become a faith experience for us as we enter into the meaning and background to the lifegiving Infancy narratives of the Lord.

The Gospel of John

10 CDs on the Gospel of John and 2 CDs on how the early Christians came to understand Mary, and the Person of Jesus

Fr. Brown covers the main themes of John's Gospel in a wonderfully clear and easy-to-understand way. His deep understanding and love for this gospel will inform, challenge, and deeply touch all who listen.

Father Raymond Brown, SS, was an internationally influential biblical scholar whose work included nearly 40 books, many of them commentaries on the New Testament. He was twice appointed to the Pontifical Biblical Commission, most recently by Pope John Paul II in 1996, and served as president of the three most prestigious biblical societies: The Catholic Biblical Association, the Society of Biblical Literature, and the society for the study of the New Testament. His career as a seminary professor spanned nearly forty years.

Voting and Holiness

Catholic Perspectives on Political Participation

Edited by Nicholas P. Cafardi

For many American Catholics, the election season turns into a wrenching time of spiritual extortion, in which political campaigners attempt to exploit the Catholic conscience in order to achieve victory at the polling booth. All too often, Catholic lay people and clergy go along with this, and hot-button political and social issues become litmus tests for fidelity to the Catholic faith. In the worst cases, threats to withhold the sacraments are directed at Catholics who have, in good conscience, put their support behind certain candidates. Voting and Holiness is a collection of fifteen essays that tackle these issues directly. The authors-outstanding Catholic scholars and theologians-explain how the Catholic tradition is too rich and nuanced to be pigeonholed into "single issues." Subjects covered include abortion, prudential judgment, the real meaning of "intrinsic evil" in the Catholic ethical tradition, the indispensability of social justice, and participation in political life as a genuine act of holiness.

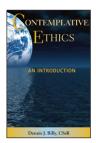

Highlights:

• Addresses ethical questions that confront all faithful Catholics at election time • Contributors are all excellent scholars and theologians • Will be of great assistance to Catholics accused who feel tension between their political choices and their faith

Nicholas P. Cafardi is dean emeritus at Duquesne University Law School. Cafardi received his undergraduate education at the Gregorian University in Rome, his master's from Duquesne University, his JD from the University of Pittsburgh, and his JCL and JCD from the University of St. Thomas in Rome. He is the author of Before Dallas (Paulist Press).

A Biblical Tour through the Sistine Chapel

Celebrating 500 Years under the Ceiling of Michelangelo

Christine Panyard, PhD

This extraordinarily beautiful and unique book brings together the paintings from the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel with their foundation in holy scripture. A knowledge of scripture helps one to understand Michelangelo's paintings and his paintings illuminate scripture. They belong together. And yet this is the first time that all the paintings have been brought together with scripture in one book. This book provides the scholar and pilgrim the opportunity to contemplate Michelangelo's work in a new way. It provides a history of the Sistine Chapel and details the impact of Michelangelo's work on western civilization. It also provides the reader with the opportunity for self-reflection. It is not a history book, an art book, or a book of spiritual exercises. It is truly an interdisciplinary work. This book is a celebration of the 500th anniversary of Michelangelo's inspired and inspirational ceiling. It commemorates this great anniversary and can be used by both scholars and pilgrims as they make their journey through the Sistine Chapel.

Christine M. Panyard is a professor in the psychology department at the University of Detroit Mercy and has practiced as a psychologist since 1972. She received a PhD from Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan.

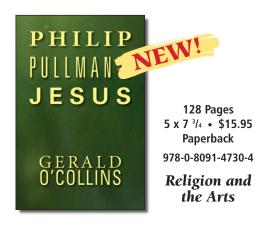

One Faith, Many Faithful

Short Takes on Contemporary Catholic Concerns

William J. Byron, SJ

Health Care. Finance reform. The future of Catholic Schools. Caring for the elderly. Abortion. Abuse scandals in the church. Business management, the economy, and the very welfare of our society. Confronted with a storm of issues, all of which call for their attention and concern, Contemporary Catholics often find themselves confused and uncertain, and even at odds with each other, when trying to apply their faith to the realities of the world they live in. One Faith, Many Faithful is a collection of essays or "short takes" that tackle the wide range of matters of concern to Catholics, but does so in a spirit of complete faithfulness to Catholic teaching and tradition. The collection is divided into four parts: "Religion and Ethics," "Business and Politics," "Education and Family," and "People and Ideas." The author applies and explains principles of Catholic social teaching throughout the book, which offers the reader clarity and concise exposition of the issues that are troubling the contemporary Catholic mind. For all Catholics who want to move beyond the limited scope of contemporary debates and actually apply the ancient principles of their faith to difficult issues, this book will be indispensable.

William Byron, SJ, is a university professor of business and society at St. Joseph's University, Philadelphia. He writes a bi-weekly syndicated column ("Looking Around") for Catholic News Service and a monthly column ("What Would You Like to Know?") for Catholic Digest. He is past president of the University of Scranton, The Catholic University of America, and Loyola University New Orleans. He holds a doctorate in economics and has taught in the business schools of Georgetown and Loyola University Maryland.

Philip Pullman's Jesus Gerald O'Collins

Philip Pullman is a writer of clarity and strength, using his gifts to recast the Gospel account of the life of Jesus in modern idiom. While he does not doubt the existence of the historical Jesus, his retelling of the Gospels says more about him and his beliefs than it does about Jesus. To Pullman, what Christians believe is no more than a story—a story of an inspiring rabbi whose life and teachings were intentionally distorted and embellished, creating a self-serving religious institution with a bloated hierarchy of bishops and priests.

Is it reasonable to believe what the New Testament and the church tell us about Jesus? Gerald O'Collins, esteemed biblical scholar and theologian, answers this question by looking at the evidence and confronting head-on the questions raised by Philip Pullman and others who doubt the truth of what we, as Christians, believe about Jesus and the church he founded.

Rev. Gerald O'Collins, SJ, is currently an adjunct professor of Australian Catholic University, after having taught at the Gregorian University (Rome) for thirty-three years. He is the author or coauthor of 56 books and hundreds of articles in professional and popular journals. A renowned international speaker on spirituality and theology, he has received numerous honorary doctorates and other awards.

What Mary Means to Christians

An Ancient Tradition Explained

Reverend Peter M. J. Stravinskas

Do Catholics actually worship Mary? What exactly is her role in Catholic Spirituality? How do Catholics justify their beliefs, some of which don't seem to have biblical attestation? In What Mary Means to Christians, theologian Peter Stravinskas provides concise but extremely thorough explanations of every aspect of the Marian tradition, including some interesting facts that Catholics themselves might not be aware of. Written not only for Catholics, but for non-Catholics who want an objective explanation of Mariological beliefs, this invaluable resource for both lay people and clergy explains how the ancient tradition of devotion to the Blessed Mother is not just proper to Catholicism, but to the entire Christian tradition as a whole

Peter M. J. Stravinskas is the executive director of the Catholic Education Foundation: an editor at The Catholic Response; and publisher at Newman House Press. A well-known theologian and Catholic apologist, he speaks frequently on Catholic subjects and is the author of several books.

Christ, Church, Mankind

The Spirit of Vatican II according to Pope John Paul II

Edited by Zdzisław Jósef Kijas, OFM Cap and Andrzej Dobrzyński

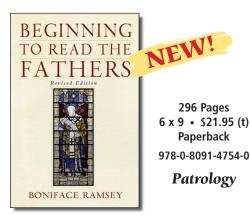

The book presents the English translation of part of the proceedings of an international symposium on "Vatican II in the Pontificate of John Paul II," which was organized by the St. Bonaventure-Seraphicum Pontifical Theology Faculty and by the Center for the Documentation and Study of the Pontificate of John Paul II which is part of the John Paul II Foundation. Exactly thirty years from the election of Cardinal Wojtyła to the Chair of Peter, it was felt the need to reflect on the key themes of the ouncil and of the pontificate of John Paul II: Christ, Church, and Mankind.

Highlights:

- This book offers a good analysis of the teaching of Pope John Paul II on the main themes of "Christ, Church and Mankind."
- · The longest part of the book treats the theme of the dignity of the human person, a most important issue of our present time.
- The book contains a good and extensive article treating the theme of the dignity of the woman, according to the teaching of Vatican II and Pope John Paul II.
- · This book is indispensable for those who are interested in the study of the connection between the teaching of Vatican II and Pope John Paul II.

Beginning to Read the Fathers

Revised Edition

Boniface Ramsey

Beginning to Read the Fathers is an introduction to the church's earliest writers, preachers and theologians. It presupposes no more knowledge on the part of the reader than that the fathers existed and that their ideas might be important and perhaps even interesting. The book does not restrict itself to such topics as Christology and ecclesiology but includes other areas like martyrdom and prayer, which were highly important in shaping the mind and heart of the early church. The material in this book is arranged thematically and follows a natural progression. Each chapter attempts to give a real taste of the subject in question by providing numerous selections from the writings of the fathers, some of them classic statements and some relatively obscure. Fathers from nearly all periods and traditions are cited. The author's opinions, although not nonexistent, are subordinate to the presentation of the fathers themselves. The work was written in a nontechnical style to be read both by beginners and by people with some expertise in the field. It concludes with suggestions for a patristics reading program for those who wish to pursue a study of the fathers in more depth. Now revised, with an updated bibliography.

Boniface Ramsey has taught extensively at Catholic University, Seton Hall University, and other institutions of higher learning. His specialty is the fathers of the church and he has published widely in this field. Currently the pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Manhattan, Fr. Ramsey holds graduate degrees from the Catholic University of America and the Institut Catholique in Paris.

Reading the Early Church Fathers

From the Didache to Nicaea

James L. Papandrea

"This is the book I wish I had when I was first studying the early church and the development of Christianity," says author James Papandrea. Reading the Early Church Fathers introduces the reader to the primary sources of church history, with commentary that will help the reader make sense of the theological/Christological trajectory that led the church from the New Testament era, through the apologists, to the development of the major doctrines of the church. Papandrea's treatment of the early church fathers is unique in that he situates his discussion against the social and cultural context of the Roman Empire and its relationship to the church, especially with regard to the effect of the persecutions on the Church. Reading the Early Church Fathers does not provide actual excerpts of the works under discussion: instead, it directs the reader to the primary sources available on the Internet, resources that will be updated regularly. The result, for all students of the early church, is a unique and unprecedented "big picture" of early Christian literature

Jim Papandrea received his PhD in the history and theology of the early church from Northwestern University. Dr. Papandrea teaches early and medieval church history at Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston, IL. He is also a consultant in the area of adult faith formation, and a featured speaker at parishes in the Chicago area.

64. St. Irenaeus of Lyons

Against the Heresies (Book 3)

Translated and Annotated by Dominic J. Unger, OFM Cap, with an Introduction and Further Revisions by Irenaeus M. C. Steenberg

ANCIENT CHRISTIAN WRITERS TM

The magisterial Adversus Haereses by the secondcentury apologist and bishop Irenaeus of Lyons takes on the daunting task of refuting the heresies that had begun springing up in the Christian world. Book 3 of this five-book work is perhaps the most important of all: its overarching theme is to establish, as the rule of faith, that it is "one and the same God and Father who was announced by the prophets, handed down by the Gospel, whom we Christians worship and love with our whole heart as the Creator of heaven and earth and of all things in them." Irenaeus does this by mining the Gospels for every shred of evidence that he can marshal to prove his points. This new translation and introduction, based on the most up-to-date sources, is an invaluable addition to scholarship on the most significant work by one of the most renowned authors in early Christianity.

Matthew C. Steenberg is a deacon in the Russian Orthodox Church in Great Britain and Ireland and professor of theology at Leeds Trinity University College in Leeds, UK. He has authored many studies of early Christianity.

65. St. Irenaeus of Lyons

Against the Heresies (Book 2)

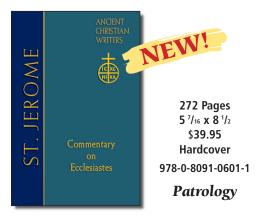

Translated and annotated by Dominic J. Unger, OFM Cap. Late of St. Patrick Friary, St. Louis Missouri; With further revisions by John J. Dillon; Introduction by Michael Slusser

ANCIENT CHRISTIAN WRITERS

The magisterial Adversus Haereses by the secondcentury apologist and bishop Irenaeus of Lyons takes on the daunting task of refuting the heresies that had begun springing up in the Christian world. Book 2 of this five-book refutes the gnostic and Marcionite heresies—the "falsely socalled knowledge"—that Irenaeus so thoroughly exposed in Book I, convincingly and effectively stating the clear line between orthodox belief and gnostic doctrine. This new translation and introduction, based on the most up-to-date sources, is an invaluable addition to scholarship on the most significant work by one of the most renowned authors in early Christianity.

Dominic J. Unger was a Capuchin priest and patristics scholar. He translated Book 1 of Adversus Haereses for the Ancient Christian Writers series. John J. Dillon is a patristics scholar, member of the advisory board of the Ancient Christian Writers series, and pastor of a large parish in Hyattsville, Maryland. He has a PhD in Greek and Latin from the Catholic University of America.

66, St. Jerome

Commentary on Ecclesiastes

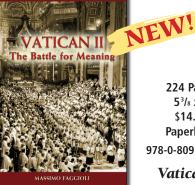

Translated, and edited with a commentary, by Richard J. Goodrich and David J. D. Miller

ANCIENT CHRISTIAN WRITERS™

Jerome's scholarly achievement was remarkable, and this early work of his is both a fine tribute to his learning and a not always creditable revelation of his character. He learned Hebrew from a Jewish biblical scholar, to the point where he could make valuable three-way comparisons between the Old Latin text with which he and his readers were familiar, the Greek Septuagint, and the Hebrew. He had also read widely in the works of Greek exegetes, of which he made critical use in this commentary, often comparing different interpretations and providing his own. His own pride in his education shows itself in several quotations from classical authors. This translation aims to render the biblical text, with which he prefaces each section of his commentary, in English as literal as his Latin-perhaps that of an Old Latin version. The translation of Jerome's commentary aims at reproducing his own fluent, sometimes rather rhetorical, style; but it has often been necessary, for a modern readership, to break up his typically long sentences. The commentary shows full awareness of modern work on Ecclesiastes and provides details of Jerome's numerous sources. An appendix puts the Latin text onto a sounder footing than any yet published, with use of the unique fifth-century manuscript in the Würzburg University library. All Hebrew, Greek, and Latin words referred to in the commentary are translated, and the Hebrew and Greek ones are also transliterated.

Richard Goodrich is a lecturer in history at Gonzaga University.

David J. Miller teaches Greek to graduate students at the University of Bristol in England.

Vatican II

Vatican II

The Battle for Meaning

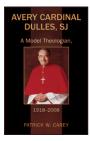

Massimo Faggioli

The death of John Paul II and the election of Benedict XVI constituted undoubtedly two important elements in the broad theological and ecclesiastical landscape of the debate about Vatican II in the last few years. This change of pontificate has also nourished the journalistic and political dispute about Vatican II, its history and its legacy, and not only the historiographical and theological debate. Brief accounts of the history of Vatican II have reached the public at large but the research on Vatican II is already proceeding forward and beyond the state of knowledge about the council reached at the end of the 90s. Even if some observers seem to be satisfied with the present knowledge, for twenty-first century church historians and theologians interested in understanding contemporary Catholicism in the light of Vatican II, the intellectual undertaking is still evolving. The book gives a comprehensive presentation of the theological and historiographical debate about Vatican II. The attempt to go beyond "the clash of interpretations"-Vatican II as a rupture in the history of Catholicism on one side and the need to read Vatican II in continuity with the tradition on the other-is necessary indeed because the ongoing debate about Vatican II is largely misrepresented by the use of "clashing interpretations" as a tool for understanding the role of the council in presentday Catholicism.

Massimo Faggioli, who holds a PhD from the University of Turin, is assistant professor of theology at the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul (Minnesota). He is author of numerous articles on Vatican II and contemporary Catholicism.

Evangelization

Doctrinal Note on Some Aspects of Evangelization

Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith; translated by Robert Bar

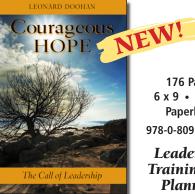

The book presents the English translation of the church document Doctrinal Note on Some Aspects of Evangelization, issued on 12/3/2007, devoted to an exposition of the Catholic Church's understanding of the Christian mission of evangelization. The text is accompanied by five articles written by experts, explaining the importance of the document. With this book, the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith seeks to offer a contribution toward a better understanding of the themes presented in the Doctrinal Note.

Highlights:

• The book offers an English translation of the document of the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, accompanied by five comments explaining the importance of the document.

• Today there is "a growing confusion" about the Church's missionary mandate. Some think "that any attempt to convince others on religious matters is a limitation of their freedom," suggesting that it is enough to invite people "to act according to their consciences," or to "become more human or more faithful to their own religion", or "to build communities which strive for justice, freedom, peace and solidarity," without aiming at their conversion to Christ and to the Catholic faith

• This document seeks to clarify the understanding of the Church on the Christian mission of evangelization, which is to proclaim the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Leadership Training and Planning

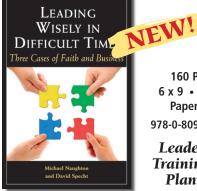

Courageous Hope

The Call of Leadership

Leonard Doohan

This book's focus on leadership and hope is very appropriate given today's climate of distrust that many find results in a sense of hopelessness in their current leaders. Individuals and organizations are desperate for leaders of hope. Many books on leadership point to the need for inner motivation, but that inner motivation must be hope in new possibilities for a changed future. It is hope that gives a meaningful expression to leadership and enables the leader to be creative in dealing with the present. More than anything else it is a vision of hope that can excite and empower leaders to inspire others to strive for a common vision. You can have faith in a vision, but it is only hope that keeps you working for it, for dedication to vision is only proved in hope. Today's world and its many manifestations in organizational life are crying out for a new dedication to the vocation of leadership. The greedy, the abusers, the power hungry, the selfish will always be with us. May there also always be those men and women who will give their lives to leadership in service for others and in dedication to a future for which we hope. The aim of this book is to invite the reader to think about what he or she hopes for in leadership and how to be faithful to those hopes.

Leonard Doohan is professor emeritus of religious studies at Gonzaga University, Spokane WA, where he taught for 30 years and served as dean of the graduate school for 13 years. He has written many books and articles, given over 300 workshops worldwide on leadership in business, healthcare, ministry and nonprofit organizations. He is the author of Spiritual Leadership: The Quest for Personal Integrity (Paulist Press, 2007) and Enjoying Retirement (Paulist Press, 2010).

Leadership Training and Planning

Leading Wisely in Difficult Times

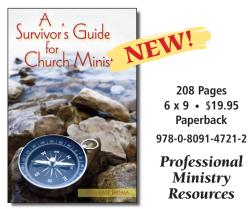

Three Cases of Faith and Business

Michael Naughton and David Specht

It is said that "he who tells the story defines the culture." The three stories within this book are of business leaders who are trying to live faithfully in difficult times-times that are extremely competitive, complicated, globalized, and secular. At the heart of these stories are servant leaders who desire to see things whole. They are not motivated simply by wealth maximization, or enlightened self-interest, or some abstract social contract as often indicated by economic and management literature and textbooks. Their faith has created a much larger world for them. The leaders and founders of the companies in this book were nurtured in a culture in which a good life involved more than one person. The cultural institutions they were formed in, particularly the family, education and the church, instilled in them a theological vision out of which a moral orientation was developed. This moral vision caused these leaders to question their own individual self-interest and utility-maximizing inclinations, and seek to order their own good toward others. Each of the stories within the book has two major dimensions. The first is the case itself that presents the reader with a short description of a dilemma perplexing the leader, along with some background material on the leader and the company. The second dimension is an extended theological reflection after each case. The point of this chapter is not to simply provide answers to the case, but to bring the reader into deeper reflection of the significance of human action in business.

Michael Naughton is a full professor and holds the Moss Chair in Catholic Social Thought at the University of St. Thomas (Minnesota).

David Specht is cofounder of Seeing Things Whole, an organizational that explores the intersection of spiritual imagination, moral courage and organizational life.

A Survival Guide for Church Ministers

William J. Jarema

Contemporary church ministers experience many demands: church growth, aging buildings, expanding church ministries and services, paid personnel and effective supervision, dealing with state and federal laws like OSHA, HIPPA, merging churches, and programs and church staff. This book will help church leaders embrace the evolution of change in our local churches and update pastoral skills, remain informed about the paradigm shifts occurring on all levels of church ministry, and still be effective in our chosen field of expertise as church leaders. This book is designed to assist the church leader with concise and usable information that can be applied to present church and ministry activities.

Rev. William J. Jarema is the director/founder of Mercy Center Inc., Colorado Springs, Colorado. He is a psychotherapist, spiritual director, international retreat and workshop presenter as well as the author of numerous books that promote the healing and development of the whole person. Fr. Bill has worked with clergy, religious and lay parish staff from around the world.

Youth and Young Adult Ministry

Catholic Colleges in the 21st Century

A Road Map for Campus Ministry

Jeffrey LaBelle, SJ, and Daniel Kendall, SJ

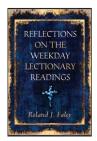

The authors examine social and pastoral issues that impact the direction of campus ministry at Catholic colleges and universities in the United States today. A paradigm shift has occurred from the Vatican II generation till now in which their children, as well as their non-Catholic companions, make up the student bodies of 21st century Catholic colleges and universities. Immersed in a world of consumerism, postmodernist doubt, and post-9/11 xenophobia, today's students of Catholic colleges and universities live in a world of cultural pluralism as well as religious diversity. Further, their lifestyles and life goals differ greatly from previous generations and urge a new pastoral response by campus ministers. To that end, this book provides today's campus ministers, and those in training, with a road map to assist them in navigating the following issues: 1) Catholic Identity: balancing Catholic identity and cultural pluralism; 2) Student Profile: understanding 21st century Catholic college culture; 3) Role of Campus Minister: responding to the spiritual, pastoral, and emotional reality of Catholic college students; 4) Academics: theology, philosophy, core curricula requirements; 5) Student Activities: integrating core Catholic values; 6) Student Life: respecting and nurturing faith traditions; 7) Social and Political Engagement: promoting peace and justice; 8) Annotated Bibliography of Recommended Texts.

Daniel Kendall, SJ, is professor of scripture and theology at the University of San Francisco.

Jeffrey LaBelle, SJ, is assistant professor in the College of Education at Marquette University.

Women Deacons

Past. Present. Future

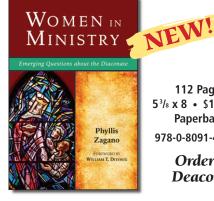

Gary Macy, William T. Ditewig, and Phyllis Zagano Foreword by Susan A. Ross

The tremendous growth of the permanent order of deacon in the church carries with it lingering questions about women deacons. The church's evident need for more women in ministry demands careful exploration and evaluation of the historical roots, contemporary ecclesial realities, and creative future possibilities for including women in the diaconate. In these three essays, originally written for this volume, Professors Macy, Ditewig and Zagano evaluate the question of women deacons from the historical, contemporary, and future perspectives in conversation with one another and with the whole church. The result is essential reading for anyone interested in the nature and exercise of diaconate in the contemporary Catholic Church.

Dr. Gary Macy is John Nobili, SJ, Professor of Theology at Santa Clara University.

Dr. Phyllis Zagano is senior research associatein-residence and adjunct professor of religion at Hofstra University, Hempstead, NY.

Deacon William T. Ditewig, PhD, is director of lay and deacon formation in the Diocese of Monterey in California and former executive director of the Secretariat for the Diaconate of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops in Washington, DC.

Emerging Questions about the Diaconate

Phyllis Zagano Foreword by William T. Ditewig

When Pope Paul VI implemented the decision of the Second Vatican Council to renew the diaconate as a permanent order of ministry, he asked the logical question, "What about women deacons?" That question continues to be asked throughout the church as the possibility of restoring women to the diaconate emerges more and more as a pressing answer to the ministerial needs of the church. In Women in Ministry: Emerging Questions about the Diaconate theologian Phyllis Zagano examines three distinct questions about women in the diaconate: Is the restoration of women deacons part of the unfinished business of Vatican II? What are the ecumenical implications of ordained women deacons? Does Pope Benedict XVI envision the restoration of women deacons?

Dr. Phyllis Zagano is senior research associatein-residence and adjunct professor of religion at Hofstra University, Hempstead, NY.

Seventeenth-Century Lutheran Meditations and Hymns

Edited and with an Introduction by Eric Lund

CLASSICS OF WESTERN SPIRITUALITY™

The volume contains a complete new translation of Sacred Meditations, a highly influential devotional text written by Johann Gerhard (1582-1637) the most prominent Lutheran theologian of the Age of Orthodoxy as well as an excerpt from one of his later books, which instructs readers in the practice of meditation. In addition, there are excerpts from Heinrich Müller (1631-1675) and Christian Scriver (1629-1693), spiritual reformers who influenced the reshaping of spiritual focus that took place between the late Reformation and the rise of Lutheran Pietism. Müller's meditations, drawn from his sermons, are sometimes provocative and always lively. Scriver's meditations are an example of the genre of emblem literature. They colorfully describe scenes or stories in order to advance a moral or spiritual message. Several of these texts are translated here into English for the first time. Lutheran hymns constituted some of the most notable examples of German poetry during the seventeenth century. This selection of religious lyrics, from eleven different authors, reveals the full range of sentiments found within early Lutheranism. Many of these hymns continue to be used for Lutheran worship down to the present day.

Eric Lund is professor of religion at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota. He holds a PhD from Yale University.

Jeanne Guyon

Selected Writings

Translated, edited, and introduced by Dianne Guenin-Lelle and Ronney Mourad

CLASSICS OF WESTERN SPIRITUALITY™

Jeanne Guyon was a seventeenth-century French mystic and Quietist, and a fascinating figure in the court of Louis XIV. Marginalized and ignored by French historians for two centuries after her death, her spiritual writings have nonetheless remained consistently popular among English-speaking audiences. Guyon had a strong influence among Quakers and Methodists in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and her message of self-abnegation and the complete abandonment of individual desires in conformity to God's will continues to inspire many Christians today. This volume offers new, contemporary translations of her most important spiritual writings, including her Short and Easy Method of Prayer and her Commentary on the Song of Songs, never-before-translated letters of spiritual direction, and selections from her autobiography. The most comprehensive introduction to Guyon's life, theology, and historical context available in English examines Guyon's life and historical context, focusing on the religious and political conflicts responsible for her persecution and eventual imprisonment in the dreaded Bastille and examining her spiritual influences and theological contributions.

Dianne Guenin-Lelle teaches in the modern languages and cultures department at Albion College. She received her PhD in seventeenthcentury French literature from Louisiana State University. Ronney Mourad teaches in the religious studies department at Albion College. He received his PhD from the University of Chicago Divinity School.

A Lever and a Place to Stand

The Contemplative Stance, the Active Prayer

Richard Rohr with a Foreword by James Martin, SJ

In this thought-provoking book popular author Richard Rohr offers a critique of religion that often creates an alternative pious world without really challenging oppression, materialism, and sectarianism in our modern world. Religion, he says, without this contemplative stance is often part of the problem. Drawing from Jesus' parable of the rich man, Rohr believes that religion can only refind itself as a transformational system if it passes through the eye of a needle, if it overcomes its own temptation to power, wealth, and fundamentalism. A true contemplative stance crosses boundaries, is not concerned with who's in and who's out. It is not a worthiness competition. In fact, the accessibility of the contemplative awareness to all is, Rohr believes, the key to the Gospel message that, "The kingdom of heaven is 'hidden in plain sight.""

Richard Rohr is a Franciscan priest of the New Mexico Province. He founded the Center for Action and Contemplation in Albuquerque in 1987 as an experiential formation center for both activists and contemplatives. He considers the preaching of the Gospel to be his primary call, and uses many platforms throughout the world to accomplish that goal.

Globalization, Gender, and Peacebuilding

The Future of Interfaith Dialogue

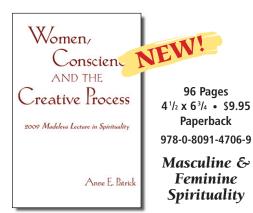

Kwok Pui-lan

MADELEVA LECTURE IN SPIRITUALITY

Religion has played an enormous role in contemporary politics and in the discussions of war and peace, identity and tradition, authoritarianism and democracy. In the Madeleva Lecture for 2011 Kwok Pui-lan, one of the most prominent postcolonial feminist theologians, discusses the future of interfaith dialogue. She shows how globalization has impacted interreligious relationships and dialogue and argues that the future of interfaith dialogue must include those marginalized voices that have not been invited to the table, especially women. In discussing issues on gender and interfaith dialogue, she explores concerns that have been raised by women, such as the Orientialist construction of religious difference, reciprocity, and misappropriation, and multiple identities and hybridity. Finally, a central focus for interfaith dialogue is peacebuilding, and in this context Dr. Kwok explores the concept of polydoxy, which goes beyond the logic of the One to embrace multiplicity and relationality.

Kwok Pui-lan is the William F. Cole Professor of Christian Theology and Spirituality at Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge, Massachusetts, and in 2011 was president of the American Academy of Religion.

SPIRITUALITY

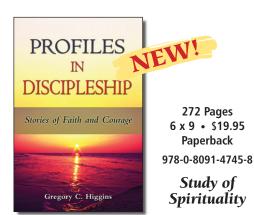

Women, Conscience, and the Creative Process

Anne E. Patrick

MADELEVA LECTURE IN SPIRITUALITY

In Women, Conscience, and the Creative Process, renowned moral theologian Anne E. Patrick offers a deeply personal interpretation of conscience, drawing on Scripture, ethics, psychology, and stories of women's lives to demonstrate the importance of the virtue of creative responsibility. Inspired by Vatican II's call for a moral theology that challenges the faithful to "bring forth fruit in charity for the life of the world," Patrick suggests that the creative Jesus who invented stories and knew when to observe rules and when to go beyond them for the sake of neighbors in need is best followed by disciples whose spiritual practices include the nurturing of creativity. In her detailed discussion of the creative process, she shows how eminently creative individuals, especially women of the past and present, are continuing to influence the world for the better. Creativity, the author maintains, is a trait shared by all, and its exercise should be encouraged for everyone, since powers of imagination and willingness to risk new approaches to problems are essential for the Christian moral life. Readers will gain a new appreciation of their own creative process and a deeper grasp of its importance for their spiritual and moral lives. Instead of thinking of "conscience" as a piece of moral radar equipment, they will come to understand it as a shorthand way of talking about the "creatively responsible self."

Anne E. Patrick, SNJM, is William H. Laird Professor of Religion and the Liberal Arts, emerita, at Carleton College, a member of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, and a past president of the Catholic Theological Society of America.

Profiles in Discipleship

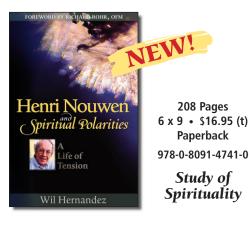

Stories of Faith and Courage

Gregory C. Higgins

Profiles in Christian Discipleship explores twelve images of Christian discipleship that have guided the thought and action of two dozen influential figures in the Christian tradition. Combining history, theology, and spirituality, Profiles in Discipleship draws upon the richness of the Christian tradition to shed light on the crucial question of how to live a life of faithful Christian discipleship in today's world.

Henri Nouwen and Spiritual Polarities

A Life of Tension

Wil Hernandez

Henri Nouwen not only embraced the reality of spiritual polarities—like true self/false self, solitude/community, suffering/glory—in his own journey but befriended the accompanying tensions emerging from such polarities. This book highlights the tension-filled nature of our journey and shows us, via Nouwen's example, how we too can navigate our way through it in a transformative way.

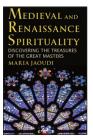

"Henri Nouwen is our generation's Kierkegaard. Like Kierkegaard, he helps introduce us to ourselves. Wil Hernandez aids us in the next step; he wonderfully introduces us to Henri Nouwen. You won't be disappointed in this book."

--RON ROLHEISER, president, Oblate School of Theology and author of The Holy Longing

Wil Hernandez, PhD, is a retreat leader, counselor, and spiritual director in private practice. Aside from doing retreats, lectures, seminars and workshops all over the U.S. and abroad, he also teaches courses on the spirituality of Henri Nouwen at various Catholic and Protestant seminaries and universities across the country. His website is www.nouwenlegacy.com.

Can Catholics and Evangelicals Agree about Purgatory and the Last Judgment?

THEOLOGY

NEW!

This book presents an ecumenically sensitive explanation of the Catholic doctrine of purgatory. By recognizing that all Christians must answer the question about what happens to imperfect Christians at death, it is able to put the doctrine of purgatory in dialogue with other Christian responses to this question. The work of evangelical theologian Miroslav Volf is particularly helpful in this regard as his theology of the judgment is elegant, comprehensive and well-grounded in the broader Christian tradition and in Scripture. While there has been considerable disagreement and even polemics among Christian denominations on topic of purgatory and the afterlife, this reading resource suggests that there are significant possibilities for agreement and rapprochement.

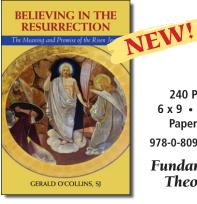

Highlights:

- Addresses topic of purgatory ecumenically
- Presents historical development and biblical basis
- Reading resource accessible to both academics and general audience
- Provides a good overview of Catholic understanding on this topic
- Utilizes the work and insights of evangelical theologian Miroslav Volf
- Review questions end each chapter
- Bibliography for further reading
- Resource for undergraduate or graduate courses on eschatology

Brett Salkeld is a doctoral student in systematic theology at Regis College, Toronto.

Believing in the Resurrection

The Meaning and Promise of the Risen Jesus

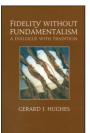

Gerald O'Collins, SJ

What does the resurrection of Jesus mean? Why believe in Jesus as risen from the dead? What promise does his resurrection hold out for human beings and their world? In facing these questions, this book begins by surveying what has been currently written and debated in the area of resurrection studies. After clarifying the meaning of the claim "Jesus is risen," it investigates the New Testament testimony to his postresurrection appearances and the discovery of his empty tomb. The appearances and the empty tomb led the first Christians to believe in the resurrection, a faith then confirmed by the descent of the Holy Spirit and the success of their mission to the world. Moving from the past, the book then reflects on the risen Jesus as a living presence today that has inaugurated the coming transformation of human beings and their world. The work ends by spelling out the moral implications of believing in Jesus' resurrection and hoping for our own.

Professor emeritus of the Gregorian University (Rome) and now adjunct professor of Australian Catholic University, Gerald O'Collins has so far published seven books and dozens of articles on the resurrection of Jesus. This published work, together with his lectures around the world, have made him an international authority in the area of resurrection studies.

Talking with Evangelicals

A Guide for Catholics

Ralph Del Colle

It is imperative that Catholics and Evangelicals move beyond mutual stereotypes they may have of one another. In this book, part one provides a history of Evangelicalism and an answer the question of who is an Evangelical? Part two takes up specific issues that distinguish Catholics and Evangelicals. The method is intended to affirm a common faith while providing mutual understanding of the doctrines and practices that divide the two communities. It is directed more to the Catholic reader who when confronted by an Evangelical Christian often does not know how to respond. Special attention is given to the experiential aspects of Christian life that often place the Catholic Christian at a disadvantage such as a "personal relationship with Christ." By exposing the underlying doctrinal differences and then appealing to the experiential register in both traditions, it is hoped that the book will equip Catholics to anticipate the fruitful possibilities of this dialogue. By taking up the challenge of Evangelicalism to Catholics as well as exposing some of its weaknesses, it is hoped that a more robust and ecumenical Catholic identity will emerge for the reader.

Ralph Del Colle is associate professor of theology at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Ecumenical Directions in the United States Today

Churches on a Theological Journey

Edited by Antonios Kireopoulos with Juliana Mecera

Ecumenical Directions in the U.S. Today is an ecumenically essential work that conveys prominent and current ecumenical ideas at the beginning of the fifty-first year of Faith & Order in the USA. Part I places readers solidly within a historical framework, describing the struggles, documents, and publications through which ecumenists journeyed to bring us to 2007. Part II reflects on postmodernism's influence on both theological engagement and methodology. Part III creatively envisions the future, identifying specific issues ecumenism will have to engage, including interfaith questions. Part III also includes an essay by John T. Ford, CSC, designer of the traditional ecumenical process, to which he suggests an added step. Each section culminates in a reflection written after Oberlin, noting important trends, developments, and ecumenical methods. At a time when evangelical involvement in the ecumenical movement is changing, this book features four evangelical authors and essays about evangelical involvement in the ecumenical movement. Additionally, it collects essays ranging from Lutheran, Methodist, and United Church of Christ authors to Episcopal, Orthodox, and Catholic authors. Under one title, it presents an authentic picture of the diversity present in the ecumenical movement today.

Dr. Antonios Kireopoulos is the Associate General Secretary for Faith & Order and Interfaith Relations at the National Council of Churches USA. He attained his PhD in theology from Fordham University.

Bridges—Documents of the Christian-Jewish Dialogue

Volume One—The Road to Reconciliation (1945 - 1985)

Edited by Franklin Sherman

STIMULUS BOOKS

Bridges: Documents of the Christian-Jewish Dialogue is a comprehensive collection of statements on Christian-Jewish relations issued by churches and interfaith organizations around the world since the end of World War II. Vol. 1 contains such groundbreaking documents as the World Council of Churches' statement "The Christian Approach to the Jewish People" issued at its founding assembly in 1948; the Episcopal Church's "Deicide and the Jews"; the Second Vatican Council's historic declaration Nostra Aetate (1965), addresses by Popes Paul VI and John Paul II and other Roman Catholic documents; and official statements by Lutheran, Reformed, Methodist, Baptist, and other Protestant denominations, as well as ecumenical bodies. Joint Christian-Jewish documents include the famous "Ten Points of Seelisberg" and other statements from national and international interfaith organizations.

All of these documents show the Christian churches in a posture of radical repentance for the hostility towards Jews and Judaism that has often marred their teachings, as well as an eager desire to engage contemporary Judaism in dialogue and to learn from its spiritual richness. All documents are presented unabridged. Several statements by European church bodies are presented in English translation for the first time.

Franklin Sherman is founding director of the Institute for Jewish-Christian Understanding of Muhlenberg College. He served previously as tutor and lecturer at Mansfield College, Oxford, and as professor of Christian ethics and dean of the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago.
